Introduction

Depuis les années 1950 jusqu'à nos jours, les institutions d'enseignement supérieur de la musique en Europe ont progressivement ouvert leurs portes à l'accordéon. Ces créations de classes, qui ont donné à cet instrument une certaine visibilité, et donc une légitimité dans le monde de la musique, semblent aller de pair avec le développement extraordinaire de la création musicale autour de cet instrument, d'où une explosion du nombre d'œuvres que l'on connaît aujourd'hui. Devant le manque d'informations disponibles sur les différents cursus supérieurs en Europe, il m'a semblé nécessaire de réaliser un état des lieux de l'offre d'enseignement actuelle : cette recherche, qui a permis de recenser 119 institutions européennes proposant un enseignement de l'accordéon, montre que l'introduction de cet instrument dans les différents conservatoires ne s'est pas faite au même rythme dans tous les pays. Conformément aux limites qui entourent ma recherche en doctorat artistique sur Le répertoire contemporain de l'accordéon en Europe depuis 1990, ce document fait état des institutions de l'ensemble des 28 états de l'Union Européenne, ainsi que de 3 pays de l'Espace Schengen qui ne font pas partie de l'UE. Sur ces 31 pays, seuls 6 ne proposaient pas en 2014 de formation supérieure en accordéon : la Bulgarie, Chypre, le Luxembourg, Malte, la République Tchèque et la Roumanie. Il va de soi que ce répertoire pourra être étendu, dans le futur, aux pays des Balkans par exemple, où la tradition de l'accordéon est très présente. Les informations présentées correspondent strictement aux réponses apportées par 135 professeurs, responsables des relations internationales, directeurs d'institutions ou étudiants¹ entre mai 2013 et février 2014. Les institutions sont classées par ordre alphabétique du pays, puis de la ville où elles se trouvent. Pour chacune d'elles, nous avons indiqué la date de création de la classe, le nom du premier professeur d'accordéon ainsi que des enseignants actuellement en poste, la présence éventuelle d'un cours de didactique instrumentale, et la liste de tous les cursus proposés. Devant l'absence de réponse de 5 institutions, nous présentons les informations que nous avons pu trouver sur internet. Les traductions des noms des institutions sont conformes aux documents officiels. Ce projet n'aurait pas pu voir le jour sans l'aide précieuse de Gretchen Amussen et de Philippe Brandeis au Conservatoire national supérieur de musique et de danse de Paris, de Jérémy Cox, directeur de l'Association Européenne des Conservatoires² et de Bruno Mantovani, directeur du CNSMDP³. Ce répertoire, qui donnera une vision d'ensemble de l'offre actuelle d'enseignement de l'accordéon, favorisera, je l'espère, de plus grands échanges entre les accordéonistes en Europe, et une meilleure connaissance de ce pan important de l'histoire de notre instrument.

Introduction

From the 1950s until today, European higher music education institutions have gradually integrated the accordion in their courses. These new classes, which gave the instrument a certain visibility, and therefore legitimacy in the world of classical music, go hand in hand with the extraordinary development of musical creation for this instrument, as evidenced by the number of works now available¹.

Due to the lack of information relative to accordion studies in Europe, an inventory of the different schools that offer degrees in accordion was undertaken: this research, which has identified 119 European institutions offering accordion studies, shows that its introduction in various academies or conservatoires did not necessarily occur at the same time within different European countries. This PhD research focuses on the accordion contemporary repertoire in Europe since 1990, and limits results to all 28 European Union countries, as well as the 3 countries of the Schengen area which are not part of the EU. In 2014, only six countries did not offer accordion higher education: Bulgaria, Cyprus, Luxembourg, Malta, the Czech Republic and Romania. This repertoire list could be expanded in the future to the Balkan countries, for example, where the tradition of the accordion is very important.

The research presented here corresponds verbatim to the responses made by 135 teachers, international relations' coordinators, directors of institutions and students², between May 2013 and February 2014. All institutions are listed in alphabetical order by country and city. For each, the date of creation of the accordion class is indicated, including the name of the first accordion teacher appointed and teachers currently employed, the presence of a course in accordion pedagogy, and the list of all degrees offered. Please note that translated Conservatoire names respect official institutional documents.

This project would not have been possible without the help and the support of Gretchen Amussen, Philippe Brandeis and Bruno Mantovani at the Paris Conservatoire³, and Jeremy Cox, Chief Executive of the European Association of Conservatoires (AEC)⁴.

This repertoire list, which provides a comprehensive overview of the current accordion education in Europe, will hopefully encourage exchanges between accordionists, by providing a better understanding of this important part of the history of our instrument.

Since the Bologna reformation in 1999, all the 73 Italian public conservatoires and private istituti musicali pareggiati offer higher education (Triennio and Biennio degrees).^{*} Because of the significant number of Italian higher level institutions as well as the difficulty in reaching staff, this research does not include accordion classes in the music institutes.

Diplômé de l'Académie Sibelius d'Helsinki dans la classe de Matti Rantanen, lauréat de la Fondation d'Entreprise Banque Populaire, du Mécénat Musical Société Générale et de la Fondation Meyer, Vincent Lhermet est le premier accordéoniste à réaliser un doctorat d'interprète au Conservatoire national supérieur de musique et de danse de Paris et l'Université de Paris-Sorbonne où il travaille avec Laurent Cugny et Bruno Mantovani.

Lauréat de concours internationaux (Arrasate-Hiria, Gaudeamus Interpreters...), il se produit en soliste, avec orchestre et ensembles (orchestre de l'Académie Sibelius, orchestre d'Auvergne, Secession Orchestra, ensemble Court-Circuit...), ainsi qu'au sein de diverses formations de chambre dans des salles telles que le Muziekgebouw d'Amsterdam, la Maison de la Musique d'Helsinki, la Cité de la Musique de Paris ou encore la Salle Garnier et l'Auditorium Rainier III de Monte Carlo.

Plusieurs de ses concerts ont été enregistrés par la Radio nationale finlandaise et France Musique.

Passionné par la musique de notre temps, il œuvre à l'enrichissement du répertoire de l'accordéon en collaborant avec des compositeurs tels que Franck Bedrossian, Tomas Bordalejo, Martin Iddon, Philippe Hersant, Martin Matalon, Florent Motsch, François Narboni, Jukka Tiensuu, Mikel Urquiza...

Il enseigne au C.R.R. de Boulogne-Billancourt ainsi qu'aux Pôles Supérieurs d'enseignement artistique de Lille et de Paris Boulogne-Billancourt et est régulièrement invité à donner des masterclass, conférences à l'étranger et à siéger dans les jurys de concours internationaux.

Vincent Lhermet graduated from the Sibelius Academy (Finland) with the highest honors in the class of Matti Rantanen. He is the first accordionist ever admitted to the PhD program of the Paris Conservatoire/Sorbonne University, where he is preparing a thesis under the direction of Laurent Cugny and composer Bruno Mantovani.

A laureate of international competitions (Arrasate, Gaudeamus interpreters...), he regularly performs worldwide as a soloist, with orchestras and ensembles (orchestre d'Auvergne, Secession orchestra, ensemble Court-Circuit...) as well as in various chamber groups in prestigious venues such as the Muziekgebouw Amsterdam, Musiikkitalo Helsinki, the Cité de la Musique in Paris, the Salle Garnier and Auditorium Rainier III in Monte Carlo.

Several of his performances have been broadcasted live or recorded by the Finnish National Broadcasting Company (YLE) and by France Musique.

Vincent is actively promoting the new music repertoire by collaborating with composers such as Franck Bedrossian, Tomas Bordalejo, Martin Iddon, Philippe Hersant, Martin Matalon, Florent Motsch, François Narboni, Jukka Tiensuu, Mikel Urquiza...

He has been supported by the Banque Populaire foundation, the Mécénat Musical Société Générale, the Meyer Foundation, LUSES, and the Paulo Foundation.

Lhermet is regularly invited to sit in the jury of international competitions and to give lectures in european academies. He is currently teaching accordion at the Boulogne-Billancourt Conservatoire, and the Higher Arts Education Centers of Lille and Paris Boulogne-Billancourt.
